

SPARK 076

(Matrix Code: SPARK076.00 for StartOver.xyz game.)

DISTINCTION: Possibility Village exists already now.

NOTES: When people work around Possibility Managers for a while it is reported that an unexpected long-forgotten vision begins to arise. Some part of the imagination lights up and presents us with an extraordinary picture of what could be possible if we lived amongst other Possibility Managers in ordinary life. The vision of Possibility Village seems to originate from a common place in people's hearts.

The exact details of the vision of Possibility Village vary from person to person, but the core pieces are remarkably similar. A small village, a large garden, perhaps farm animals, a big kitchen and dining room, a homemade school, a training center for public workshops, classes, and trainings, a research center, various other businesses, all run by Possibility Managers. Families, couples, singles and older people, living and working together enjoying the benefits of using the tools and techniques of Possibility Management. Possibility Village looks like heaven on earth.

For many people the vision of Possibility Village is clear and persistent. Along with the vision comes a strong direct bodily sensation of certain Bright Principles: Love, Openness, Joy, Integrity, Communication, Play, Intimacy, Growth, Commitment, Learning, Lightness, Teamwork, Spirituality, Adventure, Fun, and of course, Possibility. Immense Possibility.

What about this vision? Possibility Village seems so attractive. Why not make it real? Why not start a project? Get the people and financial resources together, buy or construct buildings, move in and live Possibility Village. What about it? Let's go!

EXPERIMENTS:

SPARK076.01 This is an experiment in perspective. Conflicts arise from a point of view. From one perspective there is a conflict. From another perspective there is no conflict. Some points of view disempower you. Some points of view empower you. The question at hand is, what about Possibility Village?

The perspective that disempowers you about Possibility Village is that the dream of your heart does not exist in the reality of your life. You wonder what to do. You think that for Possibility Village to become reality you must make some grand gesture. You must gather many people, collect huge amounts of funding, buy land or a village and start building. You must create a financial plan and a legal foundation. You must agree on a system of leadership for creating plans, making decisions, and solving problems. Possibility Village will not exist until your present situation matches your agreed upon vision. The steps required before you can actually live in Possibility Village might take years to accomplish. Knowing people, knowing yourself, you realize that reality may not match your vision until some far distant future, or perhaps never. You may as well leave the vision in the realm of fantasy and surrender to living your melancholic life.

The perspective that empowers you about Possibility Village is that Possibility Village exists already now. You do not have to wait around to have what you want. It is already here. Possibility Village will always be evolving – and – Possibility Village already exists. Possibility Village is happening right now, all around you. Anyone using Possibility Management or helping someone else use Possibility Management is being Possibility Village in action. Anyone practicing core skills exercises, reading books, having telephone conversations or emails with other Possibility Managers is being Possibility Village in action. Anyone using Possibility Management on their jobs or in their professions is being Possibility Village in action. Anyone running Study Groups, teaching or taking classes, writing articles, books or film scripts, running Possibility Teams, Rage Clubs, or Adventure Feelings clubs, attending or giving talks or workshops, or spending time together as Possibility Managers is being Possibility Village in action. By now this includes tens-of-thousands of people around the world.

Does the present situation match the sacred vision of what you thought Possibility Village must look like? No.

Is the present situation really Possibility Village as it exists now in its current state of evolution? Yes.

Friends, Possibility Village is happening. Although the Possibility Village that is happening now probably does not look like the Possibility Village of your vision, here is the point: it never will. A vision is still life. Reality is always in flux. Think about it: even if Possibility Managers lived together in a village they would rarely all be together. Often they would be out on the road working in other cities and countries and doing the jobs on their bench.

Here is your experiment. Start where you are. If you miss having meetings and get-togethers with Possibility Managers, then have more meetings and get-togethers with Possibility Managers. Invite people to come around, tonight, this week. Use the ideas in the SPARKs as a jump off point for sharing and exploring new territory. Or just party. If you miss having meals together with mixed adults and children then set up a big table and invite people to eat with you – or eat on the floor! Invite the neighbors, especially the neighbors you do not already know. If you want to start a project and you need a partner, call people up and make arrangements. Whatever you truly want to experience from your vision of Possibility Village, go ahead and create it so that you can experience it now. I am telling you, people are already doing this. Possibility Village is already happening. You do not have to wait around anymore. Make Possibility Village real where you are. Welcome home!